As mentioned by Alex, one should always keep the original tense that was used by the author when doing the citation.

5. From their dialogue, which statement in the following is NOT right?

1 / 1 point

- ☒ For academic papers, "I", the first person pronoun, is frequently used.
- ☐ The first person point of view emphasizes the author's involvement with the events he's presenting.
- ☐ The second person point of view usually brings the readers into focus.
- ☐ The third person point of view creates a kind of distant but objective view on the events, which will be better in academic writing.

✓ Correct

As mentioned in the dialogue, the usage of tense depends on the research. The first person pronoun is used to show that the author is living, or is suffering.
